Das neue Gartenfeld in Berlin

This project will be a model for 21st century urban design. OPM is providing project management and project control for this project. "Das neue Gartenfeld will be a neighborly urban quarter and an urban laboratory for testing innovative urban development and mobility," says the press. On the western edge of Berlin in the district of Spandau, an entire island, the Gartenfeld, will be redesigned starting in 2020. The goal: communal and self-organized urban living for all generations and a diverse mix of carriers and housing types. The project is currently in the development plan process. UTB, as one of the participating companies, has been involved in the management and control of the project so far. After the project development, the project control is now continued by Otte Projektmanagement GmbH (OPM) for the Planungsgemeinschaft das Neue Gartenfeld GmbH & Co. KG will be continued.
